ABOUT ME

I am a traditional and digital Italian illustrator, I have been drawing from a young age and love being surrounded by colours that have been part of my life ever since.

After graduating from the School of Art I specialized in editorial illustration attending the three-year course in editorial illustration at the School of Comics in Milan.

I start out as a graphic designer and visualizer in studies and advertising agencies, but my inclination towards observing and representing reality in detail urges me to devote myself to the illustration technique.

My love of animals and deep sensitivity for nature and my passion for observing closely the details of the life that animate it, lead me to specialize in scientific/natural illustration in all its aspects, from botanical to environmental design.

Between 1995 and 2012 I hold free-lance collaborations with Italian and foreign publishers.

For Jaca Book, Carthusia, Larousse I illustrate popular science and environment books for children; I remain in non-fiction until 2007 when I start working on the True Stories of Animals fiction series with Einaudi; conversely, the latest publications are a new experience aimed at getting closer to publishing fiction for children.

My illustrations have been selected and recognized for five consecutive years (1998, 1999, 2000, 2001, 2002) at the Illustrators Exhibition during the "International Children's Book Exhibition" in Bologna.

I have skills in the following programs:

Adobe Photoshop CS6

Adobe In Design CS6

Adobe Illustrator CS6

Besides working as an illustrator I devote myself to "wildlife" painting by means of which I can freely indulge in the representation of animal life, which I portray with great accuracy.

My paintings are exhibited in galleries of that sector in the UK.
